

Getting to know new employees also means finding out what they may like and how they prefer to be recognized. This is one of the simple tools that can be used to recognize team members or offer a nice thank you that is meaningful. Gathering this information, in the beginning, can help find a meaningful appreciation that someone will value.

If you drink coffee- favorite coffee order:

if you like candy- favorite candy:

Favorite snack or go-to muchie:

Favorite restaurant:

Do you prefer to take an extra break, work from home, or take time off as reward:

What are some of your interests?